HOLIDAY WORK

Item 1

Jonathan has been working with Sky Companies in Uganda, a soap manufacturing firm, for over 20 years. Despite his long service, his income has remained the same, yet his responsibilities and debts have continued to increase.

On Sunday, he met his brother Peter, a business person dealing in children's clothes in Kampala. During their conversation, Jonathan shared his financial struggles. Peter encouraged him to think creatively and consider starting a small business to increase his income. He also shared with him some of the lessons and benefits he has enjoyed as an entrepreneur.

Task:

- a) If you overheard Jonathan and Peter's conversation about his financial struggles, what ideas would you share with Jonathan to help him see the value of starting his own business?
- b) If Jonathan decides to start a business in Kampala, in what ways could he use innovation to successfully establish and grow his enterprise?

Item 2

Café Javas, a well-known restaurant in Kampala City, has been serving customers for over 10 years. Most of their clients are working-class people who earn a regular income. Recently, the manager thought of adjusting the menu to attract more university students from nearby institutions such as Makerere University, Victoria University, and Kyambogo University.

Before implementing this idea, the manager plans to conduct a market survey to understand the students' food preferences, tastes, and spending habits.

Task:

- a) Imagine you were consulted by the manager as a Senior One Entrepreneurship student. Which methods would you suggest as the most suitable for collecting information from university students?

- b) In your opinion, how would Café Javas benefit from conducting such activity before introducing the new menu?

Item 3

Mary has been a stay-at-home mother for many years. Recently, she decided to open a shop in town dealing in bags, shoes, and jewelry. To successfully begin her business, she needs money to pay rent for three months, hire workers, buy stock, and advertise her products. Since she doesn't have enough savings, Mary is considering different ways of raising funds to make her business dream a reality.

Task:

- a) If you were advising Mary as a student of Entrepreneurship, what important factors should she consider to successfully start and operate her business in town?
- b) In your view, what possible options could Mary consider for getting the money she needs to put her business idea into action?

ITEM 4

Kissa a graduate of catering and hotel management operates a restaurant in Namayingo a busy town. She wakes up early in the morning to prepare food for her customers. She gathers information regarding catering from internet and attends seminars and conferences where she gets new ideas and skills of improving on her catering services. She also set sales targets and meets them which has made her earn profits from the business. However, the performance of the restaurant has declined due to low innovation levels. Amidst this challenge, Kissa does not give up with her business.

Task;

- a) Identify entrepreneurial qualities that Kissa possesses
- b) Advise Kissa on how to different types of innovation he can undertake.
- c) Design a business card to be issued to customers as a strategy to promote customer awareness.
